

Tips for parents

SCHOOL OFFERS THE OPPORTUNITIES your child will need to succeed in life. Make sure your child is in school all day, every day!

- Make it clear that education is important to you by showing interest in your child's schoolwork and activities.
- Know school policies on absences and making up work.
- Know and support the school's rules and tell your children you expect them to follow the rules.
- Keep an accurate calendar that shows school breaks. Plan family vacations when school is in recess.
- Make sure your child arrives on time. Being late 10 minutes a day totals 30 hours of lost instruction for the school year.
- Schedule appointments after school hours, whenever possible.
- Call the school when your child is absent. When possible, let the school know in advance that your child will be out.

Sometimes serious family or medical issues can impact attendance. It is important to communicate with school personnel and work together to overcome obstacles to attendance.

PART 24. Compulsory School Attendance.

380.1561

380.1561. Compulsory attendance at public school; requirement; ages; enrollment dates; exceptions.

Sec. 1561. (1) The parent, guardian, or other person having control and charge of a child, or the child, if the child is 16 years of age or older, shall send that child to a public school during the school year fixed by the school district in which the child is enrolled. In a school district that maintains school during the entire calendar year and in which the school year is divided into quarters, a child is not required to attend the public school more than 3 quarters in a calendar year, but a child shall not be absent for 2 or more consecutive quarters.

Sec. 1561. (2) A child becoming 6 years of age before December 1 of the calendar year in which the child is enrolled on the date of the school year shall be enrolled in the school district in which the child resides on the date of the school year. If the child's residence is not established on the date of the school year, the child shall be enrolled in the school district in which the child resides on the date of the school year. If the child's residence is not established on the date of the school year, the child shall be enrolled in the school district in which the child resides on the date of the school year.

What parents need to know about
School attendance and the law

Education is important for your child's success in life. Regular attendance ensures that your child gets all the benefits school can offer.

When children are missing school, they're missing out on those benefits.

School attendance is so important, that Michigan law makes it compulsory for all children ages 6 to 16 attending public schools. When children are excessively absent, the law holds parents/guardians accountable.

If your child is truant (missing scheduled school time without an accepted excused absence), you and/or your child could end up in court with serious consequences.

Attendance may be the single most important factor in school success because:

- Children do best in school when they are in class every day. The U.S. Department of Education reports that for every missed day of school, it takes a student two days to catch up.
- In addition to academics, children learn valuable lessons about personal responsibility and commitment.
- Children keep up with their peers and have stronger bonds with the school and community.
- Annually, students who graduate from high school will earn 30% more than those who don't complete high school.

Notify school of any absence

Make sure you know your school's policies about notification regarding absences and what documentation your school accepts for:

- Illness
- Medical appointments
- Observance of religious holidays
- Family emergencies

Also know what absences your school will excuse. Some activities generally not accepted for an excused absence include:

- | | |
|--------------|------------------------|
| Babysitting | Missing the bus |
| Cold weather | Need for sleep or rest |
| Employment | Car broke down |

If you get notification from school about attendance issues, it is important that you get in touch with school officials immediately. Delaying response to any correspondence will limit your ability to settle these issues without further legal implications.

You should also know that if you end up in court, all attendance issues—including tardies—may be considered in the decision of the court.

Consequences of truancy

As a parent you are responsible for your child's regular attendance at school. School staff will work with you to keep you notified of any problems with your child's attendance. You can work with the school to resolve attendance issues. However, when a student has excessive attendance issues that remain unresolved, schools will contact an attendance officer (an officer of the court) for legal resolution. In that case, you may receive a petition/warrant and be brought before the court. Based on the outcome of the hearing, a parent found neglectful could be arrested/jailed or the child could be removed from the home.

If you have done everything you possibly can to encourage attendance but the child is not responding and is intentionally truant from school (skipping), charges can be brought against the student to be handled by the juvenile court. The student could be placed on probation or end up in the Juvenile Justice Center.

For cases that end up in court, the consequences come at a high price for the family in terms of time, cost and emotional impact.

Authority for legal actions to be taken is provided by:
Michigan Compulsory School Attendance Act
beginning with Section 1561 of the Revised School Code (MCL 380.1561)
